

Courtney Hunter
Director, Advocacy and Government Affairs
The Partnership for Drug-Free Kids

Courtney Hunter joined The Partnership for Drug-Free Kids in 2009. In her current role, she works on national advocacy campaigns that enlist parents and families across the country.

Prior to becoming the Director of Advocacy and Government Affairs, she worked on a state alliance program; ran The Meth Project as part of The Partnership's teen meth prevention program; and worked in media relations.

Courtney graduated cum laude from the University of Minnesota. She received her Master's in Public Administration (MPA) from the School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) at Columbia University in 2013.
